

ELDER LAW

The firm's elder law section helps clients with their loved one's long term care planning needs. This includes the use of various estate planning techniques designed to pass as much wealth as possible to future generations, with minimum exposure to gift and estate taxes and without creating penalties for future Medicaid eligibility.

Our elder law attorneys counsel clients in connection with their long-term healthcare decisions, disability protections and need for advanced medical directives. We regularly assist clients in obtaining Medicaid benefits to pay for long-term home care and nursing home care. We also provide advice on the estate recovery process in Texas and the most effective ways to protect assets from estate recovery.
